The Coffee Bean & Tea Leaf on Upper State and De La Vina is permanently closed, and just like that no more ice blended's. The staff were wonderful. I will miss Enrique, Celeste, Chase, and the rest of CBTL's smiling and always helpful crew.

How many business have closed during this pandemic here? About 10 or more? Nordstrom, Sur La Table, one Subway, Dutch Gardens, Enterprise Fish, Plum Goods [I think that was the downtown business that closed?], this one. THose are just the ones I can recall right now but I believe there were more.

I know of a handful of businesses that opened too.

Dutch Garden didn't close due to the pandemic, he retired and it's being fixed up and will be opened as Dutch garden again in a few months.

TAGDES - Are you sure? Can you confirm that? This would be WONDERFUL news if true!

Tadges; where did you hear this information? I would think there would need to be major compliance upgrades to the building, kitchen, and outhouses. I would love it if this were true, although I will miss Ken's awesome cooking!

A friend of the property owner back in the Silver Spurs days from 1978 drove by and said they are in the process of updating the kitchen and landscaping would reopen in a few months. They said it'll still be Dutch Garden and have the same recipes.

By the way my name is Tag des, not Tadges.

Some of the businesses that have closed, like CBTL for example, were ready to go anyways. Overpriced water coffee, poor service. No thanks.

I feel for the employees who lost their jobs, but I hated their coffee and haven't been in there for at least a decade.
